

Major chords training

♩ = 65

Example 1a - Shifting between two chords

Example 1a shows a sequence of four measures. The first measure contains a G major chord (000333) and the second a C major chord (x00233). The third measure returns to G (000333) and the fourth to C (x00233). The notation includes a standard staff with a treble clef and a 4/4 time signature, and a guitar-specific staff (TAB) with fret numbers. Above each measure is a chord diagram for the respective chord. The guitar staff shows a consistent rhythmic pattern of quarter notes across all strings.

Example 1b - Shifting between two chords

Example 1b shows a sequence of four measures. The first measure contains an F major chord (xx0333) and the second a C major chord (x00233). The third measure returns to F (xx0333) and the fourth to C (x00233). The notation includes a standard staff with a treble clef and a 4/4 time signature, and a guitar-specific staff (TAB) with fret numbers. Above each measure is a chord diagram for the respective chord. The guitar staff shows a consistent rhythmic pattern of quarter notes across all strings.

Example 2 - Shifting between three chords

Example 2 shows a sequence of four measures. The first measure contains an A major chord (x02222), the second a D major chord (xx0232), the third an E major chord (022022), and the fourth returns to A (x02222). The notation includes a standard staff with a treble clef and a 4/4 time signature, and a guitar-specific staff (TAB) with fret numbers. Above each measure is a chord diagram for the respective chord. The guitar staff shows a consistent rhythmic pattern of quarter notes across all strings.

Example 3 - Shifting between chords in the same bar

Example 3 shows a sequence of six measures, each containing two chords. The first measure has A (x02222) and D (xx0232). The second has E (022022) and D (xx0232). The third has A (x02222) and D (xx0232). The notation includes a standard staff with a treble clef and a 4/4 time signature, and a guitar-specific staff (TAB) with fret numbers. Above each measure is a chord diagram for the first chord in the pair. The guitar staff shows a consistent rhythmic pattern of quarter notes across all strings.